In re Application of John Doe

Serial No. 12345678

Trademark: JOHN DOE'S PIZZA SHACK

Filing Date: January 1, 2016

RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION

COMES NOW, the Applicant John Doe (hereinafter "Applicant") and respectfully requests the Examining Attorney to reconsider its refusal of instant application on the grounds of Trademark Act Section 2(d), 15 U.S.C. §1052(d); see TMEP §§1207.01 et seq., stating as follows:

ARGUMENT IN SUPPORT OF REGISTRATION

The Examining Attorney refused registration of the mark on the basis that, if registered, the Applicant's mark would create a likelihood of confusion with the trademark DOUGH PIZZA PLACE more fully set forth in U.S. Registration No. 4500000.

The Standard for a Determination of a Likelihood of Confusion

A determination of likelihood of confusion between marks is made on a case- specific basis. In re Dixie Restaurants Inc., 41 USPQ2d 1531, 1533 (Fed . Cir. 1997). The Examining Attorney is to apply each of the applicable factors set out in In re E.I. du Pont DeNemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 1361, 177 USPQ 563, 567 (CCPA 1973). The relevant du Pont factors are:

(1) The similarity or dissimilarity of the marks in their entireties as to appearance, sound, connotation and commercial impression;

(2) The similarity or dissimilarity and nature of the goods as described in an application or registration or in connection with which a prior mark is in use;

(3) The similarity or dissimilarity of established, likely-to-continue trade channels;

(4) The conditions under which and buyers to whom sales are made, i.e., 'impulse' vs. careful, sophisticated purchasing;

(5) The number and nature of similar marks in use on similar services; and

(6) The absence of actual confusion as between the marks and the length of time in which the marks have co-existed without actual confusion occurring.

Id.

The Examining Attorney is tasked with evaluating the overall impression created by the marks, rather than merely comparing individual features. Mead Data Cent., Inc. v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 875 F.2d 1026, 1029, 10 USPQ2d 1961 (2d Cir. 1989). In this respect, the Examining Attorney must determine whether the total effect conveyed by the marks is confusingly similar, not simply whether the marks sound alike or look alike. First Savings Bank F.S.B. v. First Bank System Inc., 101 F.3d at 645, 653, 40 USPQ2d 1865, 1870 (10th Cir. 1996) (recognizing that while the dominant portion of a mark is given greater weight, each mark still must be considered as a whole)(citing Universal Money Centers, Inc. v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 22 F.3d 1527, 1531, 30 USPQ2d 1930 (10th Cir. 1994)). Even the use of identical dominant words or terms does not automatically mean that two marks are confusingly similar. In General Mills, Inc. v. Kellogg Co., 824 F.2d 622, 627, 3 USPQ2d 1442 (8th Cir. 1987), the court held that "Oatmeal Raisin Crisp" and "Apple Raisin Crisp" are not confusingly similar as trademarks. Also, in First Savings Bank F.S.B. v. First Bank System Inc., 101 F.3d at 645, 653, 40 USPQ2d 1865, 1874 (10th Cir. 1996), marks for "FirstBank" and for "First Bank Kansas" were found not to be confusingly similar. Further, in Luigino's Inc. v. Stouffer Corp., 50 USPQ2d 1047, the mark "Lean Cuisine" was not confusingly similar to "Michelina's Lean 'N Tasty" even though both marks use the word "Lean" and are in the same class of services, namely, low-fat frozen food.

Concerning the respective goods with which the marks are used, the nature and scope of a party's goods must be determined on the basis of the goods recited in the application or registration. See, e.g., Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Packard Press Inc., 281 F.3d 1261, 62 USPQ2d 1001 (Fed. Cir. 2002); In re Shell Oil Co., 992 F.2d 1204, 26 USPQ2d 1687, 1690 n.4 (Fed. Cir. 1993); J & J Snack Foods Corp. v. McDonald's Corp., 932 F.2d 1460, 18 USPQ2d 1889 (Fed. Cir. 1991); Octocom Systems Inc. v. Houston ComputergoodsInc., 918 F.2d 937, 16 USPQ2d 1783 (Fed. Cir. 1990); Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, N.A. v. Wells Fargo Bank, 811 F.2d 1490, 1 USPQ2d 1813 (Fed. Cir. 1987); Paula Payne Products Co. v. Johnson Publishing Co., 473 F.2d 901, 177 USPQ 76 (CCPA 1973). See generally TMEP § 1207.01(a)(iii).

Even if the marks are similar, confusion is not likely to occur if the goods in question are not related or marketed in such a way that they would be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create an incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source. See, e.g., Shen Manufacturing Co. v. Ritz Hotel Ltd., 393 F.3d 1238, 73 USPQ2d 1350 (Fed. Cir. 2004) (cooking classes and kitchen textiles not related); Local Trademarks, Inc. v. Handy Boys Inc., 16 USPQ2d 1156 (TTAB 1990) (LITTLE PLUMBER for liquid drain opener held not confusingly similar to LITTLE PLUMBER and design for advertising services, namely the formulation and preparation of advertising copy and literature in the plumbing field); Quartz Radiation Corp. v. Comm/Scope Co., 1 USPQ2d 1668 (TTAB 1986) (QR for coaxial cable held not confusingly similar to QR for various products (e.g., lamps, tubes) related to the photocopying field). See generally TMEP § 1207.01(a)(i).

Purchasers who are sophisticated or knowledgeable in a particular field are not necessarily immune from source confusion. See In re Decombe, 9 USPQ2d 1812 (TTAB 1988); In re Pellerin Milnor Corp., 221 USPQ 558 (TTAB 1983). However, circumstances suggesting care in purchasing may tend to minimize likelihood of confusion. See generally TMEP § 1207.01(d)(vii).

Applying the legal standards as enumerated above, it is clear that confusion is not likely as between Applicant's trademark and the trademark cited and, accordingly, the refusal to register JOHN DOE'S PIZZA SHACK should be withdrawn.

The Trademarks Are Dissimilar

TTC Business Solutions
The Secret Of Your Success

The points of comparison for a word mark are appearance, sound, meaning, and commercial impression. See Palm Bay Imps., Inc. v. Veuve Clicquot Ponsardin Maison Fondee en 1772, 396 F.3d 1369, 1371, 73 USPQ2d 1689, 1691 (Fed. Cir. 2005) (citing In re E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 1361, 177 USPQ 563, 567 (CCPA 1973)). Similarity of the marks in one respect – sight, sound, or meaning – will not automatically result in a determination that confusion is likely even if the goods are identical or closely related. Rather, taking into account all of the relevant facts of a particular case, similarity as to one factor alone may be sufficient to support a holding that the marks are confusingly similar, but a similarity of one factor is not dispositive of the entire analysis. See In re Thor Tech, Inc., 90 USPQ2d 1634, 1635 (TTAB 2009); In re White Swan Ltd., 8 USPQ2d 1534, 1535 (TTAB 1988). Additions or deletions to marks are often sufficient to avoid a likelihood of confusion if: (1) the marks in their entireties convey significantly different commercial impressions; or (2) the matter common to the marks is not likely to be perceived by purchasers as distinguishing source because it is merely descriptive or diluted.

Different Commercial Impressions

If the respective trademarks create separate and distinct commercial impressions source confusion is not likely. Shen Mfg. Co. v. Ritz Hotel Ltd., 393 F.3d 1238, 1245, 73 USPQ2d 1350, 1356-57 (Fed. Cir. 2004) (reversing TTAB's holding that contemporaneous use of THE RITZ KIDS for clothing items (including gloves) and RITZ for various kitchen textiles (including barbeque mitts) is likely to cause confusion, because, inter alia, THE RITZ KIDS creates a different commercial impression).

In the instant case, Applicant's trademark JOHN DOE'S PIZZA SHACK creates a commercial impression of a seaside shack owned by the proprietor john doe which sells pizza. In the alternative, the registered trademark DOUGH PIZZA PLACE creates a commercial impression of a pizza parlor that uses the descriptive term dough in regard to pizza . Given these separate and distinct commercial impressions, it is submitted that this fact favors a finding of an absence of a likelihood of confusion under this du Pont Factor.

Absence of Actual Confusion

Finally, there is no evidence of record indicating that there has been actual confusion in the marketplace as between Applicant's services and the registrant's services.

The absence of any instances of actual confusion is a meaningful factor where the record indicates that, for a significant period of time, an applicant's sales and advertising activities have been so appreciable and continuous that, if confusion were likely to happen, any actual incidents thereof would be expected to have occurred and would have come to the attention of one or all affected trademark owners. See Gillette Canada Inc. v. Ranir Corp., 23 USPQ2d 1768, 1774 (TTAB 1992).

As the Examining Attorney has alleged, the Office believes that the Applicant's services and those of the registered trademark travel in similar trade channels and are marketed in a similar enough manner to create a likelihood of confusion. While not conceding this point, provided that this is, in fact, the Office's position it would be contradictory to discount the absence of actual confusion as between the trademarks at issue where the Office contends there is an overlap in marketing and trade channels.

Accordingly, consistency in the Office's position, whether or not countered by the Applicant in the instant Argument, suggests that the Office should consider the absence of evidence of actual confusion to be a meaningful factor in the instant analysis, a factor which clearly supports registration of Applicant's Trademark under this du Pont factor.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing it is submitted that the du Pont factors addressed herein favor registration of the Applicant's Trademark.

WHEREFORE it is respectfully requested that the Examining Attorney reconsider the refusal of the instant proceedings, remove as an impediment the cited trademark, and approve the instant Application for publication.

Respectfully submitted this 15th day of March, 2016,
